

Welcome to Severn Trent Services

Adding greater value to the communities we work in

DO YOU BELONG TO AN MOD COMMUNITY?

If you're reading this, you're probably connected to a Ministry of Defence community in some way.

You're possibly an MOD estate manager. Perhaps you're armed forces personnel. Maybe you live in Service Family Accommodation. Or you might work in a town with a military base.

Whatever your connection, Severn Trent Services offers a range of free education services for people who belong to our communities. Including those within the Ministry of Defence estate, spread across 1,200 sites in 25 English counties.

WHO WE ARE

We're Severn Trent Services, part of Severn Trent. Think of us as the specialists for anything related to water or wastewater.

We're a collection of businesses offering different types of commercial water and wastewater services to organisations across Great Britain.

Every day, our team operates, repairs, maintains, and optimises thousands of water and wastewater assets within MOD communities and beyond.

INTRODUCING OUR FREE COMMUNITY EDUCATION SERVICES

Our 'day job' is to deliver water and wastewater services to the MOD estates we look after – on behalf of Aquatrine.

But we aim to go much further than that. We want the communities we work in to benefit from our wider skills and resources too.

The free community education services we offer are anchored around the wonderful world of water. After all, our roots are in water, one of the planet's most precious natural resources.

By bringing to life how fundamental water is to our lives – and how important it is to look after it for future generations – we add greater value to the communities we serve.

Our free community education services include:

- Careers fair talks
- Community event attendance
- Community group volunteering
- Educational site tours
- School visits
- Volunteering in your communities

The topics we specialise in, include:

- How water and waste works
- How to save water
- What not to put down loos and plugholes
- What happens when you flush your loo
- Water and the environment
- Careers in the water industry

COMMUNITY EVENT ATTENDANCE

Are you organising an MOD community event in a location we work in?

Perhaps you're preparing for an Armed Forces Day? Or maybe you're planning a Military fair or a Personnel safety day?

Whatever the event, we're ready to be an exciting part of it. How? By educating and entertaining eventgoers about the importance of water so that communities understand and look after it.

Our creativity knows no bounds, so rest assured your event attendees won't be disappointed. They'll see live demonstrations of our Jet Vacs, interactive activities for children, and access to our environmentally friendly Water Bar. And what's more, it's all free.

Ask how we've supported many community events and the fantastic feedback we get. Email education@stservices.co.uk

COMMUNITY GROUP VOLUNTEERING

Are you a member of a community group connected to the MOD? If so, you may be interested to know that we support several community groups across Great Britain –virtually and in person.

We recognise that community groups are at the heart of society. From talking to Scouts about the horrors of fatbergs, planting trees with locals to offset your carbon footprint, or building bug hotels in town gardens – we offer tailored support to match what you need most.

EDUCATIONAL SITE TOURS

What happens to your pee and poo when you flush the toilet? Why does it matter if you put unflushables down your loo?

To answer these questions and many more, why not get a behind-the-scenes tour at our water treatment and education centre in Richmond, Yorkshire – which serves an MOD community like yours?

It's free, it's fascinating, and it caters for young minds as well as experienced heads.

Spaces are limited, so book now to avoid disappointment via education@stservices.co.uk

CAREERS FAIR TALKS

Are you a school or college within an MOD community we work in? If so, let our water and wastewater experts inspire your pupils and students to consider a career in the water industry.

From electricians and quantity surveyors to mechanical maintenance technicians and marketing managers – there's a whole raft of varied and interesting job opportunities available in our sector.

Our workforce reflects the diverse communities we love to serve, made up of talented people from all walks of life. That's why we love to talk to people about what it's like to work in water.

Would you like us to attend your careers fair? If the answer's yes, please book the team today by emailing education@stservices.co.uk

SCHOOL VISITS

Are you a teacher or a parent within an MOD community we work in?

If so, our speciality is igniting the next generation about the wonderful world of water.

We deliver engaging assemblies, lessons, workshops, and talks to primary school children. Both online and face-to-face.

Our work is designed to get children curious about where water comes from, why it's important to look after it, and what happens when the wrong things escape down loos and plugholes.

Help to change habits that will secure a future for generations to come. Book a session via education@stservices.co.uk

SUSTAINABILITY AND COMMUNITY EDUCATION SERVICES

Adding greater value to the communities we work in is one of our commitments to sustainability.

Working in the water industry, we see the effects of climate change every day. For example, water demand is higher when there are more heat waves. And as extreme downpours become more frequent, there's extra pressure on the water and wastewater assets we manage for the MOD.

That's why we want to inspire people to help us look after water and the environment we all live and work in.

HOW TO ACCESS OUR FREE COMMUNITY EDUCATION SERVICES

If you're connected in some way to an MOD community we work in, we'd love to understand how we can add value with our water and wastewater expertise. Please get in touch today.
